

Mrs. J. H. George and her daughter, who has been attending a fashionable seminary in San Francisco, are in Honolulu for the purpose of spending a part of the vacation months.

Last Tuesday evening Mrs. George gave an elaborate dinner at the Young to some old and new friends, the occasion being the coming of age of her pretty daughter, Ruby.

They depart for the mainland on the Alameda after a most enjoyable stay. Those present at the Young dinner were, besides the hostess and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Abrams, Miss Gwendoline Blair, Miss Louise Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cohen and Mrs. Fred Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davies entertained at dinner on Monday in honor of their relative, Miss Fox, who is visiting them from the Old Country. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clive Davies, Mr.

Mrs. Schultz is entertaining a number of her friends at a week end party at the Peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kimball, who have been visiting relatives in Boston, returned last week.

J. B. Hyde-Smith, a brother of Mrs. Harold Dillingham, was an arriving passenger on the Mongolia. He will visit here with his sister for the summer months.

The engagement of Miss Ethelinda Schaefer to Alfred Castle has been announced and the young people are receiving the congratulations of a host of friends.

Tarn McGrew is back in Honolulu, after a number of years spent abroad. He arrived on the Alameda.

Miss Grace Hortense Tower, who has many friends here, arrived for a vacation visit last week, accompanied by Miss Bonnell and Miss Earley, two friends.

Mrs. Perkins, the wife of Senator George C. Perkins, of California, is in the city. She is in poor health and hopes to be benefited by the climate of the Islands.

Miss Jessie Kennedy entertained at an elaborate supper on Monday evening at her parents' residence in honor of her friend Miss Green. The guests included Misses Alice Hedemann, Carmen Clowe, Ella Wight, F. Bland, Irene Fisher, Alice Cooke, C. Bland, Nora Sturgeon, Lorna Lauke, Messrs. Derwent Kennedy, Gustaf Schaefer, Edmund Hedemann, Alan Lowrey, Harold Castle, Arthur Mackintosh, Erling Hedemann, Sherwood Lowrey, Stanley Kennedy, G. Whitney, Will Warren.

Harold Spencer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon Spencer, was a returning passenger this week on the Alameda. He will practise law here.

Among the recent arrivals at the Pleasanton are Mrs. Jones, Miss Jones and Mrs. Tabson of Wheling, W. Va., and Miss Davis of Pittsburg, Pa.

Miss Constance Restarick entertained delightfully at luncheon in honor of Miss Edith Spalding on Thursday, the tables being decorated in Tenth Infantry colors in honor of the recently announced engagement of Miss Spalding to Lieutenant Garrett. The guests were Misses Alice Cooper, Alice Spalding, Ethel Spalding, Rennie Catton, H. Catton, Adele Morgan, Ella Wight.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Blackman are spending the summer at their Kahala beach cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bottomley entertained at dinner on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. McKinnon. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lewton-Brain, Mr. and Mrs. Hawes Jr., Miss Jordan, Mr. McKinnon and Mr. Jamieson.

Cards are out for a tea to be given by Mrs. Fred Waterhouse in honor of her nieces, Miss Harriet Young and Miss Waterhouse.

Among those departing in the Korea were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marx, who will spend two years abroad.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kinau Wilder celebrated her seventy-seventh birthday anniversary on Sunday last, a large number of her friends and relatives calling to pay their respects.

A dance for the younger set will be given this week by Mrs. Swanzy.

Miss Catton entertained for a large number of her friends at tea on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. J. O. Carter was the hostess of a luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Arthur Wood.

Captain and Mrs. Rees entertained at dinner last night at the Pleasanton, covers being laid for twelve.

A tea in honor of Miss Edith Spalding was given on Tuesday by the Misses Jordan, at which the young guests had a thoroughly enjoyable time. Among those present were Mrs. Will Soper, Miss Myra Angus, Mrs. Allan Bottomley, Misses Nora Sturgeon, Margaret Waterhouse, Constance Restarick, Katherine Smith, Vera Damon, Ethel Spalding, Alice Spalding, Kittie Robinson, Powell, Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse.

A most delightful tea was that given by Miss Catherine Smith on Thursday in honor of Miss Powell, with Mrs. Richard Cooke, Mrs. C. S. Weight, Mrs. A. Lewis and Mrs. C. H. Olson assisting the hostess and the guest of honor in receiving. There were about fifty guests.

Mrs. Southerland, the wife of Captain Southerland, of the U. S. S. New Jersey, accompanied by her two daughters, Miss Harriet and Miss May, are stopping at the Moana, awaiting the arrival of the battleship fleet. They were entertained at a bathing party yesterday by Mrs. F. H. Humphris, and a house party on Tantalus is being arranged in their honor by Mrs. Walbridge.

San Francisco Call.—The goodbyes and good wishes with which Miss Edith Jones was started on her trip to Honolulu last week were a little more serious than they usually are when a girl goes off for a visit, for it is pretty well understood that her marriage to the young British diplomat will take place in her sister's home in Hawaii, and so it may be several years before her old friends here see her again. Miss Jones' engagement was announced a few weeks ago after she returned from a visit to old friends in Siam, where she met her fiancé. The fortunate man, George Cooper, is connected with the British embassy at Siam, and although he is still quite young, has already made a name for himself in diplomatic circles. Mrs. Jones' sister, Mrs. Robert Renton Hinds (who was Miss Eleanor Estill Jones before her marriage last January), has a beautiful home in Honolulu, and the ceremony will take place there in the fall if their present plans are carried out. Another sister, Gladys, who has yet to make her debut, posed as the Indian girl in last November's tableaux at the Chutes, and is one of the prettiest of the coming debutantes.

The grounds about the British Consulate were very pretty on Monday afternoon, being arranged for a sewing tea, given by Mrs. Ralph Forster, at which a large number of fair seamstresses worked on dainty articles of sewing and enjoyed the tea served under the trees. Among those present at this pretty affair were Mrs. F. H. Humphris, Mrs. Andrew Fuller, Mrs. Bab-bitt, Mrs. Mist, Miss Mist, Mrs. Montague Cooke, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Forster, Mrs. Selden Kingsbury, Mrs. Clinton Ballentyne, Mrs. Haneberg, Miss Russell, Mrs. Hawes Jr.

After the marriage of Miss Gertude Hyde-Smith and Baldwin Wood, which will be an event of the fall in San Francisco, Mrs. Hyde-Smith will come to Honolulu for a visit with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, and probably will spend the entire winter in Hawaii.

Mrs. George R. Carter gave a delightful luncheon at her Judd street home on Thursday last, among her guests being Mrs. F. M. Swanzy, Mrs. Wodehouse, Mrs. Achilles, Mrs. Rees, Mrs. Dunning, Mrs. Everett and Miss Goodwyn.

The engagement is announced of Miss Violet Wallace, daughter of Robert Wallace, Esq., of Kona, to Mr. Frank Greenwell, of the well-known family of that name. Miss Wallace and her sister sailed for England in the Mongolia.

FASHION'S STAGE—THE METHODS OF THE THEATER AT THE DRESSMAKER'S.

Nothing can equal the stage for the display of fashion, and one of the famous London dressmakers has made a most ingenious adaptation of the methods of the playhouse. At Mme. Lucile's, in Hanover Square, there is a charming little theater where the clients of the house assemble to see the latest novelties. The background of the tiny stage is closed by heavy curtains, before which the mannequins appear to show off the new gowns. After they have posed on the stage, they come down the steps and walk about among the spectators. As regards both stage and auditorium, no more charming microcosm of fashion can be found in London.
